FEEDBACK ANALYSIS

The feedback from students, parents, teachers and alumni is crucial for the overall development and improvement of an educational institution. Regular assessments and adjustments contribute to a positive and evolving educational environment.

- Collecting feedback from students on institutions and teachers is valuable for continuous improvement and maintaining a positive learning environment.
- Teachers provide feedback on an institution to consider various aspects that contribute to the overall teaching and learning environment.
- Parent's feedback is valuable and can contribute to the continuous improvement of the institution. Approach the process with a collaborative mind-set, seeking solutions that benefit everyone involved.
- Alumni feedback often includes suggestions for how the institution could enhance its programs, services and overall student experience.

Institutions may evolve and make improvements over time based on feedback received from alumni and other stakeholders.

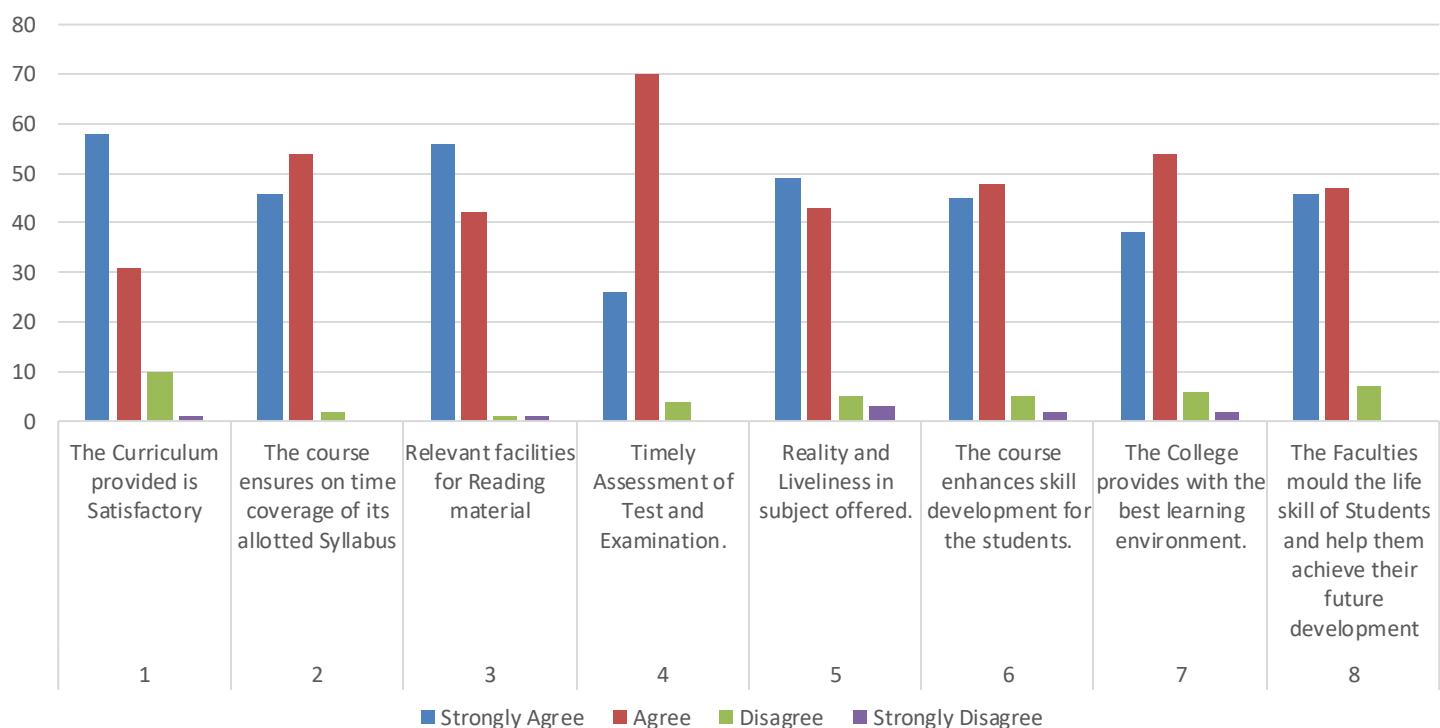

Constructive feedback helps institutions understand areas of strength that may need attention for continuous improvement. Students, parents, teachers and alumni are asked to provide their feedback on various parameters. The assessments are made by a 4-point rating scale (Strongly Agree, Agree, Disagree, Strongly Disagree) in different parameters. The feedback forms are distributed and collected at the end of the academic year.
